TERMITE OR ANT?

In Kansas, healthy subterranean termite colonies will “swarm”, or send out winged reproductive termites to start new colonies in early March through April or May. This year, our technicians found swarmer termites in mid-February. Swarmers are darker in color and have four similarly sized wings. Soon after swarming, these reproductives will lose their silvery wings and die; however, the colony they have left and the one they have started will contain thousands of worker termites which will generally begin foraging for food sources (cellulose) immediately.

Combined, our technicians have over 125 years’ experience in the termite and pest control industry. They are required to obtain certification from the Kansas Department of Agriculture and maintain that certification through ongoing training sessions and continuing education credits.

Our company can also provide wildlife control in urban and suburban settings, as well as residential and commercial rodent control.

Our office staff would be happy to answer any questions or concerns you might have about the services we provide.
